Thanks [REDACTED]

I have just given her a call to reassure her and give her my support. I also told her that there will be a highlight on Wednesday as part of Trans-awareness week. I am not sure I gave a good account of myself but I tried thanks for the email

Thanks all.

I'll get back to her and let her know that you're looking into her point and that you will respond to her when you have the answers.

Best,

This is well worth a read ahead of the call later as it articulates well the emotions around this. The upshot is, that as we know the opposition is against the deep rooted principles of the SEEN network and individuals who are part of it, and that therefore any comments made, no matter how bland they might appear, are going to spark a reaction (because of the beliefs of the

To your question: yes this has been consuming a lot of mine and James' time over the past couple of weeks and we're fully in the loop and working closely with Defra and all the networks concerned. We've actually just come off a call with the LGBT+ network in which this very topic was discussed.

The SEEN network is a cross-government network which has been sanctioned by number 10 as, as you said, having gender critical views is a protected characteristic under the equality act. So Defra or the EA cannot stop it. What we can do is ensure all language being used by both sides on this is respectful on our own channels and there's a lot of work going on behind the scenes to ensure that happens.

the EDI team is the key coordinator of all the action on this, so can provide you with more information or further advice on what support is available for all those affected by this.

All the best,
